March 2018

Dear Reader,

Last month saw the centenary of women's partial suffrage in Britain, awarded to those over the age of thirty with property of a certain value. Full enfranchisement came ten years later. My history teacher taught me that what won the vote for women in 1918 was their service during the First World War, which earned them the nation's admiration. But the story of the suffragettes' civil disobedience and heroism is what wins the headlines when the story of 'Votes for Women' is told.

The biggest and most successful demonstration in British history was part of this story. That was the Great Suffrage Pilgrimage which took place in the summer of 1913. It is almost forgotten now. Women and men marched from six directions to converge on London, covering twenty miles each day and holding meetings each morning and evening to explain their mission, stressing that they were campaigning "By faith not force." Some walked three hundred miles. The Pilgrimage culminated in a rally attended by thousands of women and men. These were suffragists, not suffragettes, and their Pilgrimage formed the highlight of a fifty year campaign which eschewed violence and disobedience.

Christians, taking up the example of the Old Testament prophets and following the teaching of Jesus, have a concern for social justice. This moves us at times to protest and campaign on all manner of concerns at home and abroad. In our three churches, this is mainly expressed through our involvement with Christian Aid, our engagement with Churches Together in South London's social awareness programme, conversing about issues in our preaching and our prayer, and getting involved when issues raise their heads. 1918 was only the first step in winning equality of opportunity and representation for women. One hundred years later, when women in Parliament face harassment and when women in public service are still paid less than male colleagues, further steps are needed to complete the journey.

Perhaps the story of suffragists and suffragettes teaches Christians how best to continue their campaign: through persistent faithfulness, sound argument and impassioned appeals to the hearts and minds of good people.

Devotions

You are there

Guide us in this season of Lent as we try to follow Jesus through the wilderness.

Whenever the darkness of ignorance and prejudice is replaced by the light of understanding and solidarity,
You are there.

Whenever your love for us empowers us to love one another,
You are there.

Whenever we recognise something sacred, something of you in every human being, You are there.

Whenever we act with generosity and compassion, seeking peace and justice in a world created for all of us,
You are there.

The Strangers in your midst......by Revd Philip Brooks

(not to be confused with Revd Phil Brooks at Christ Church!)

Olwen asked me to write a short introduction for the latest newsletter. You perhaps have been wondering who the occasional strangers in your midst were. My wife, Debs and I moved down from Bolton, Lancashire last June. We were given dire warnings of how 'the folk in the South of England are not as friendly as us Northerners', but I am pleased to report that we have received a very warm welcome indeed. That's been very much our experience at Trinity Sutton, where we instantly felt completely at home.

The reason for the move is that I took up the role of the URC's National Secretary for Ecumenical & Interfaith Relations (the URC seems to like longwinded titles!) at Church House in Tavistock Place. This was following the retirement of Revd David Tatem. My previous appointment was as minister of two Methodist/URC LEPs. One of these was very similar in size to Trinity with a busy children's ministry linked to the adjacent primary school, whilst the other one was smaller but with a thriving community project reaching out to an extremely impoverished community in Salford. It had a Foodbank which cared for a depressingly large number of local residents.

The nature of my new role means that we can only attend at Sutton intermittently. Two weeks ago I was invited to take the service at Wallington URC, whilst just a couple of weeks earlier I was at Purley URC for their Exchange Sunday. This related to another part of my Church House brief, our links with partner churches in Europe. In this case it was for the partnership we have with churches in the Palatinate region of Germany. At the end of last year, this meant addressing their local Synod deploying my best schoolboy German!

Please feel free to ask me or Debs about any aspect of our new life in London and thank you to everyone in Sutton and especially to Trinity for your warm welcome.

Sutton Team Ministry shares a statement from the Bishop of Croydon

In response to a review that was undertaken of Sutton Team Ministry, the Bishop of Croydon has proposed a pastoral reorganisation in Sutton. It is as follows:

- that the Team Ministry is dissolved, with each church becoming a separate Parish Church. Each Parish would have a Priest assigned to them a stipendiary Rector at St Nicholas, a stipendiary Vicar at Christ Church, and a house-for-duty (non stipendiary) Vicar at St Barnabas. Each would have incumbent status and cure of souls of their Parish.
- that the three churches continue to work closely together in a Group Ministry, with emphasis on our outward mission across Sutton. The group would be united around this principle and a much lighter touch Group Ministry arrangement would be drawn up. The ministry team would continue to meet for support, encouragement and fostering collaboration. This would build on some of the good work that has been done between the churches since 2006.

The proposal will be considered by the three Parochial Church Councils at their next meetings. It is emphasised that St Nicholas will continue to be part of Churches Uniting in Central Sutton.
